It is almost unnecessary to advert to the produce market, forther than to repeat the old statement that business is on a very small scale, and that pices circle round a narrow limit. There is a general downward tendency in breadstuffs, which must continue in all probability until the basis of an export demanded is reached. In every market of the country we observe no influence at work to change the existing condition, execut those ed. In every market of the country we observe no indicence at work to change the existing condition, except those of a mere temporary local character. To day, at this point, for instance, four is quiet and unchanged, just as it has been since the beginning of the week; wheat is quiet and unchanged also, but held a little firmer because of sparse receipts. Corn is stiffer for the same reason; cats are lower for mixet, for the opposite cause, that of a comparatively liberal supply; rye and barely are somewhat inactive, posibly in consequence of the near approach of a day of rest. At Chicago to-day, flour is telegraphed quiet buttirm; wheat irregular and active; corn dult and hominal; oats dult and lower; rye and barley dult. At New York, flour is dult; wheat and corn are firm; oats steady. These statements from all points, foreign and domestic, are given with regularity, and comparing them for a week at a time, the difference is quotations, which lead to the amployment of the terms "drooping," rising," firm, "steady," etc., cto, will be found too infinitesimal to result in any movement worthy of consideration.
